Rocky Raccoon

DUBLIN — If you think you could handle the responsibility of raising a spunky four-year-old child, you might be ready to cope with the demands made by a pet raccoon.

There are some behavioral similarities between the two, according to Elizabeth Talbot, librarian for young adults at Dublin Public Library.

Talbot has owned a raccoon named Sassafras for four years. She acquired the pet while doing animal behavior/ intelligence studies for her masters degree at the University of California in San Diego.

"The raccoon can only be semi-domesticated," Talbot maintains. "They are extremely intelligent, cunning, lovable, inquisitive, strong-willed and fun-loving and can completely disrupt a household."

They are easily housebroken, usually get along with other household pets and are not finicky eaters.

Raccoons do not wash all of their food in water before eating.

"That is a myth," Talbot said. "They do it sometimes but it is now believed they perform this ritual because they derive extreme tactile pleasure from rubbing their paws together."

Talbot warns against "playing roughhouse" with a pet raccoon when it is young.

"It will expect to play this way after it is full grown and is too large to handle," she said. "They can weigh more than 35 pounds."

A raccoon requires both feline and canine rabies and distemper shots.

"They must also be neutered to avoid development of a bad temper," Talbot said. "Besides being expensive to get these things done, it is difficult to find a vet willing to treat a raccoon. Raccoons don't usually like more than one or two persons and are likely to be hostile to strangers."

She emphasized no one should get a pet raccoon unless they are fully aware of what is involved on a long-term basis.

"Their usual life span is ten years but this can lengthen if they are treated extremely well. After a year, about 60 to 70 per cent of raccoon owners want to get rid of them. If anyone would like to know more about raising a raccoon, please call me at the Dublin Library."

Talbot maintains consistent, kind treatment is the best approach to use when training a raccoon.

"But you still have to remember they are basically a wild animal and love to get into things. Four-year-old Sassafras can open doors, the refrigerator, — just about anything she wants to."

Shirley McDowell's husband gave her a pet raccoon named Rocky ten months ago.

"I had wanted one ever since I was a little girl," McDowell said. "We didn't need a special permit for Rocky but do have to carry proof of immunization and purchase with us at all times. He does require strict supervision but gets along fine so far with our children, two dogs, cat and a rabbit. I'm sorry to say he ate the goldfish."

Reactors — take step or go to Ohio

Edward Teller, so - called father of the hydrogen bomb and associate director emeritus at the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory, pleaded with an enraptured audience Wednesday night to accept nuclear energy as the only solution to ending human misery.

Teller's energetic quick wit belied an urgency to convince those gathered at the Corinthian Yacht Club in Tibouron of the extreme need for developing alternate energy sources while embarking on a mass conservation program.

"The population will increase due to the many young people living now. The problem of food will increase and you can't solve it without energy," he said in thick Hungarian tones.

"You need energy to pump water, you need energy to make fertilizer, you need energy to build the machinery that goes with agricultural activities."

The 68-year-old Budapest - born genius argued that nuclear reactors, which use atomic power to generate electricity, pose no danger to life if current safety procedures are continued.

"Our president has said that proliferation of nuclear weapons will come if we allow more reactors to be built. But the proliferation of weapons has already happened.

"The reactors could be built; should be built. And controls could be exercised and then worldwide misery and hunger could be avoided.

"If you can end the energy crisis — if you can make oil available — if you can make food production for the whole world easier, we will have a much better chance to avoid war."

His intense voice signaling a grave crisis is near, Teller prophesied that Third World cultures such as India or South American nations would take extreme action if their energy supplies became seriously depleted. "If we believe that we can evade the problem of the elements, then I say worldwide hunger will become unavoidable.

"The last great depression gave rise to Hitler. And Hitler brought World War II. I am much more

They're bitin'

The fishing's good at both Shadow Cliffs and Del Valle lakes in the Valley, according to East Bay Regional Park District water management specialist Bob Nuzum.

EBRPD planted 2,500 catchable trout at Shadow Cliffs on Jan. 20 and 7,500 at Del Valle on Jan. 19. Nuzum reports Shadow Cliffs fishermen in Pleasanton have been taking an average of 1.2 fish eah and spending an average of two and a half hours per visit. Trout up to 13 inches long are the usual catch with a few channel cats up to 20 inches also landed.

At Del Valle south of Livermore, rainbow trout largemouth black bass, smallmouth bass and bluegill are being caught at a rate of 1.3 fish per anger hour.

Check your calendar

The Chamber of Commerce has begun a Pleasanton community calendar coordination service for all local organizations.

Any group which wants to know if the event it is contemplating will conflict with another club's event may call the Chamber at 846-5858 and learn what is already scheduled for that date.

Chamber of Commerce secretary Chan Henderson said the new service should assist clubs in scheduling such things as barbecues, ice cream socials, crafts fairs and similar events.

Cheez whiz

Construction activity at Cheese Factory on Pleasanton's Main Street will continue for another week, but the sales rooms will be open and the product will keep coming to customers.

Cheese impressario George Spiliotopoulos has removed all the bins from the production rooms and will remodel them for tours which he will conduct along the cheese production line.

He is spending $125,000 to boost efficiency and increase water pollution control.

Two for one

Husbands and wives and other persons with the same last name will be able to be listed jointly without additional charge in the white pages of Pacific Telephone directories starting March 14, the company said today.

Girls' soccer tourney

The valley will host its first international girls' soccer tournament Febuary 19-21 when the Washington's Birthday Friendship Tournament will take place.

The tournament will be held at various sites in Dublin and Pleasanton. There will probably be several Canadian teams entered plus some out-of-state squads.

There's enough water

PLEASANTON — It's too early to make any precise predictions about whether a water shortage will occur this summer, but this city is in a better position than many Bay Area communities when it comes to a steady supply of water.

The underground water level here has risen over the past 10 years. Pleasanton pumps 40 per cent of its water supply from the underground storage basin and the remainder comes from Zone 7, which imports the water from the state aquaduct.

There is no prospect of water rationing right now or in the next few months, but the peak demands come in June, July and August. Water rationing then would depend on a couple of factors, according to Assistant City Manager Alan Campbell.

If there is a heavy drain on the whole state water system because of continuing drought, there could be cutbacks to Zone 7. If that happens, Pleasanton would have to pump more water from the underground.

The only problem there might be a bottleneck owing to a limited well capacity. If things really got bad, the city might have to drill a couple more wells to get at that all that underground water, said Campbell.

The quality of the underground water "isn't the greatest", said Campbell, but when the problem is just getting enough water, the underground water is the solution.

Campbell will check with Zone 7 to see what kind of rojections it is making for this summer's water supply. The city should not have to impose water rationing or, if it does, the rationing probably would be mild, certainly much milder than the remedies which would face Marin County, where communities already face water rationing because of their drier situation.

Even if there is no crisis here, water conservation always is to be encouraged, said Campbell.

Teachers— it's up to school board

It is up to the school board if Livermore is to avoid a strike by teachers.

That was the word late Thursday from a representative of the Livermore Education Association.

"The Livermore board has said that they are willing to negotiate; it is now up to them to do so," said Barbara Brunke, president of LEA. "It is completely within their power to avert an action that teachers take with extreme reluctance and only as a result of prolonged provocation," Brunke stated in a news release.

Brunke noted that teachers have authorized the executive board of LEA to "call a strike when the executive board deems it necessary."

Don't understand criticism—Hall

Hall at summer press conference

County Fairgrounds employes have voted down joining a union on three occasions, most recently last May, have a pension plan that closely parallels the county plan and the Fair Association administration has specific guidelines for project bidding as patterned by the county.

Yet County Fair Association secretary - manager Lee Hall said the Fair Board of Directors "doesn't understand if the County Board of Supervisors is criticizing the Fair for the makeup and longevity of the board or the way we're operating the Fairgrounds."

Hall said Thursday the Fair Association board had written new District 1 supervisor Valerie Raymond Dec. 29 asking to meet with her. A similar tender was sent to John George, the other new supervisor.

The invitation to meet Feb. 7 at the Fair offices in Pleasanton was acknowledged by Raymond Jan. 20.

While the call for a study of the total Fairground operations, including makeup of the board, brought "no comment" from idividual directors, Hall was being inundated by media questions.

Supervisor Fred Cooper, who will spearhead the study of the total Fair operation with Raymond, had demanded the association be monitored by a citizens advisory committee, presumably to be appointed by supervisors. He further recommended that when vacancies occur on the Fair board they be filled from the ranks of the committee.

The latest Supervisors - Fair Association embroglio comes as county auditors continued their annual Report is harsh on Nipper plan

Carl Nipper's proposed "Rancho Sunol Estates" may face some serious obstacles as the plan is presented to county officials in the next months.

In a detailed, 90-page draft environmental impact report prepared by county planners and released yesterday, Nipper's proposal to put 95 estate homes on the ridge above Sunol presents a series of problems which planners say cannot be allayed.

Additionally, it is sure to raise the ire of Sunol residents who, until now, have been circulating flyers attacking the proposal.

The report will be aired in the Sunol Glenn School at 8 p.m., Feb. 1, before county planning commissioners and again March 28 at the county's public works building in Hayward. Written comments will be accepted through March 14. All comments to the environmental impact report and their answers by planning staff become part of the final EIR.

"Rancho Sunol Estates," a collection of 1½-acre to 18-acre estates stretching some 2½ miles northwest from Sunol, will bring in about 3,300 people, including about 90 elementary school students.

The northern most homes will be in the Pleasanton School District, but all elementary school children are expected to attend Sunol Glen School. The school currently holds 152 children, with a capacity for 220.

The report says the additional 22 children generated by the project either will have to attend Pleasanton schools or Sunol Glen will have to expand.

But district school superintendent George Bury told county planners he sees no "immediate problems" in accomodating the increase because the influx will be gradual as the $150,000 to $300,000 homes are built, according to the report.

High school students would attend the already "underutilized" Foothill High, say planners.

Nipper's two previous proposals calling first for 600 than 300 homes on the hill ran into problems over sewage treatment.

Now Nipper proposes to use two Aqueonics Inc., "re-serv" systems — "package plants" — to process sewage effluent.

The report says county health officials still are testing the Aqueonics system and are "not prepared to approve either the quality or effluent or long term reliability of these systems" pending further testing.

But Aqueonics head Niel Nielson told The Times treated effluent at their test facilities have met state standards.

Nipper still will need a governmental overseer, however, and proposes a "maintenance district" under contract with the county board of supervisors. Supervisors would act as the district's board of directors and contract with Aqueonics for "long term maintenance."

A homeowners association would maintain all common areas and improvements, according to Nipper's plan, with an architectural committee to approve grading, buildings, fences and landscaping.

County planners say an association is not as strong and cannot provide the same services as a "county service area" like Valley Community Services Distrct.

Teller's 'nuke' plea afraid of human misery than I am afraid of nuclear reactors. The reactors, you can keep under control if you are careful. Human misery will proceed along its own terrible course."

He urged that emotional arguments over nuclear safety be cast aside in favor of a review of reactor history.

"A pessimist is a man who wears a belt and suspenders. Only in the case of nuclear reactors we have many more belts, and if any one of these fail, the reactor goes out of function and the damage is counted in mega - bucks. Each accident makes for better belts and better suspenders."

He agreed that the potential for hurting thousands of people existed, but said the risk is acceptable due to applied safeguards, such as building the plant away from population centers, and the extremely small chance of an accident.

"The worst imaginable accident could have hurt thousands of people, but at what probability? The probability turns out to be as great that the same few thousand people would be killed by a meteroite striking a populated area," Teller argued.

"We have a self - enforcing system because any failure produces damage, and where 'dirty' capitalists are faced with damage, they do something about it — namely improve the system."

Off - shore nuclear power plants make sense, Teller said, because they can be mass - produced at lower cost with identical safeguards and would be placed far away from major population areas.

"I am a little disturbed. All the questions about reactor — everybody is afraid of reactor. Nobody is afraid of the weapon. Nobody is afraid of the energy shortage. All of you should move to Ohio. Or else all of you should stay here and wait for the blackout in July.

"If at last this hard winter will force us to face the energy crisis, we may still get away with considerable suffering but without a catastrophe. I doubt if we have another year in which to do nothing. We must act now."

check of association books. Two representatives of Donald Parkin's office were at work in the Fair offices Thursday and were expected to be there another week.

The Fair's books were previously checked by the state and the Internal Revenue Service, both of which are routine.

A report of the county audit findings goes to the state Department of Fairs and Expositions.

Hall again reiterated that the Fair Association is a private, non-profit corporation with 16 elected board members and five appointed by the supervisors.

He said the grounds in Pleasanton, which have a total valuation of $9,830,000, are tended to and administered by employes whose job classifications are similar to those of the county.

Leafing through folders in his desk, Hall said Alameda County Employees Union Local 616 had notified the Fair Association on March 29, 1973, that they had a majority of employes who wanted to become union members.

Subsequently, a secret ballot vote adminstered by the Department of Industrial Relations for Conciliation Services was held on May 14, 1973. Sixteen eligible employees voted 11-5 against joining a union.

In June of that year the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) received a letter, purportedly from an employe of the Fairgrounds, charging the administration with attempting to coerce employes not to join a union.

A hearing was held on the charges with the attorney for Local 616 agreeing to dismissal of the charges, according to Hall, if the Fair would agree to another election. The next election was held Aug. 21, 1974 with 18 eligible employes voting against joining a union.

Last May, a similar vote was held with the outcome an 8-8 stalemate.

Hall also listed the procedures the Fair Association must take when putting work projects out to bid.

Plea in store theft

LIVERMORE — One of two men suspected of stealing meat from the Albertson's Market in Dublin last week is scheduled to enter a plea Tuesday.

Kevin Bukowatz, 19, of Livermore, was charged after store employes wrestled him to the ground in front of the store after the alleged Jan. 18 theft.

Daniel Noble, 24, a store employe, told police he saw Bukowatz and a man later identified as Michael Francis Thibault, 19, of 7569 Flagstone, Pleasanton, allegedly reaching under a plastic covering at the meat counter.

Noble accused the two men of putting the meat under their coats and in their pants and walking out the store without paying.

The store employe said he followed them to a car, asking the suspects to return to the store. A fight reportedly began and other employes rushed out of the store to help.

Noble sustained an injury to the head and was transported to Valley Memorial Hospital for evaluation and treatment.

Thibault was not at the scene when police arrived to arrest Bukowatz.

In other court action:

— David Joe Fox, 19, of 6646 Hemlock St., Dublin, withdrew his not guilty plea on the Sept. 5, 1976 burglary charges that he took a $170 tape recorder and a $115 tape player from the home of David Moore, 6943 Pine Ct., Dublin.

Fox entered a "no contest" plea and was placed on two years' probation, given a one year suspended jail sentence, fined $125 and ordered to repay Moore for the loss.

— Ernest Valdez Botello, 19, of 216 Western Ave., Livermore, was sentenced to six months in county jail for the Dec. 8 burglary at the Leahy Square apartment of Kimberly Felix.

Valdez, who used to live next door to Felix, reversed his "not guilty" plea during a preliminary hearing Wednesday.

Taken was a television set, stereo and speakers valued at $700.

— Joe Pimentel, 21, of Stockton, pleaded guilty to a reduced misdemeanor charge of possessing for sale marijuana and the animal tranquilizer PCP.

CHP officer J. F. Wright reported he found Pimentel slumped over the driving wheel of his car, parked along I-580, between Vasco Road and Greenville Rd., Jan. 9.

Strike talk

The right of labor to withhold services has become an accepted part of wage negotiations throughout American industry. It was inevitable that this same recourse would someday be applied to those who staff our schools.

What is not inevitable is the kind of gutter language which society might accept in negotiating a coal miner's pay scale, but that still seems terribly foreign to our concept of the "teaching profession."

As with those difficult talks which have challenged school staffs and school boards in San Ramon, in Dublin and in Pleasanton over much of 1976, this newspaper has refrained from offering any editorial solution of our own. In the first place we are not qualified; more importantly, we have faith in responsible spokespeople for the school board and for the school employees to negotiate in a mature fashion, toward goals that will best serve the children and the community.

The people, and their news media, must become concerned however when we see the kind of bitterness developing which could render harm to the teaching process long after the settlement of any one contract. Teachers come and go, administrators are free to seek greener pastures; but the children — many of whom will spend 13 years in this community system — are always here. So too are the taxpayers who must foot the bill.

We elect responsible people to represent our needs, to negotiate contracts and determine policy. We must reject any condemnation, from whatever teacher source, that can sum up those public representatives with a statement like — "This is the fun of being on the school board ... sticking it to the teachers."

If Joe Medeiros, head of the Livermore Education Association's negotiating team, really said that, then he owes all of Livermore an apology. Perhaps then some school trustees might also climb down a peg or two, and the whole negotiating process can get back to a level the community can understand, and respect.

Save farm land

Watching the passing agricultural scene in California is like watching a man determined to knock holes in his sailing boat even as he guides his craft across rough waters; it is even more tragic if you learn that, when he drowns, you will soon starve to death as a result of his departure.

The growers, the unions, the conservationists and the politicians have been moaning for years about "the terrible things we are doing to the agricultural industry." The result of their own avid, and often selfish, argument is to erode even further the lands, the people and the will which brought California to world leadership in so very many vital crops.

That argument is underway again in Sacramento, where two bills (one of them authored by Assemblyman Dan Boatwright of Contra Costa County) are on a collision course even as both rush toward "preservation of prime growing grounds in California."

Granted, such a crusade is not a simple one, not when one considers the potential loss of local tax revenues, the offsetting contribution in state tax revenues, and — most importantly — the hardship rendered a few agricultural families as a result of any preservation bill.

But any one of or all of those concerns are minor when stacked against the monstrous alternative to intelligent action ... the gradual loss to development, to freeways and even to tax default of some of the finest producing acres in all of the world.

Given that goal, one would hope the politicians, the unions, the conservationists and the growers could somehow look past their petty differences, and look instead to the tremendous resource of land and people and technology we have today.

What California agriculture needs is enlightened, selfless leadership. We are not getting that from the debating society which annually gathers in Sacramento for a tiresome repeat of a drama that was never much to begin with.

A taxing problem

It will come as no surprise to home owners that your contribution to the operation of local government soared to record levels in the last fiscal year. It is discouraging to note, however, that city hall has been spending money at a faster clip than taxpaying property owners can pour it in.

Throughout California, city property tax collections were up last year by $125.9 million, a jump of 13.3 percent over the prior fiscal year; but the impact of that staggering increase on local budgeting actually fell by almost a full percentage point.

City hall will note, correctly, that inflation plays a big part in those higher muni budget figures; and it will also be observed that "revenue sharing and other new sources are picking up a larger share of the city's expenditures." But on both counts we property owners have reason for new worry.

Inflation will always be with us, and city hall — even as you and I — must learn to adjust its budget accordingly. And as for revenue sharing, what Washington gives, it might soon take away ... leaving local government holding the bag on a score of new - deal programs which must henceforth be funded from some unknown local source. We'll give you one guess.

FOCUS/Death penalty

State's 'Vietnam'

If you were channel - hopping Wednesday night you may have viewed a Channel 5 presentation on the death penalty.

The hour - long program, videotaped last Saturday, took a trial format with George Nicholson, former senior trial deputy in the county DA's office, arguing on behalf of a death penalty and Paul Halvonik, a public defender for the state, arguing in opposition.

The death penalty question could become California's "Vietnam" in the next year, in light of the basic emotionalism involved and the stand taken by Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Jr., who will find himself in a battle for reelection next year.

The Battle of '78 was enjoined recently when Brown reiterated previously - stated opposition to any death penalty.

In repeating his conscience - based argument, Brown placed the indelible clout of his office over that of millions of Californians who expressed their feelings for a death penalty some four years ago.

Brown also reaffirmed his position directly opposite that of the chief law enforcement officer in this state, Evelle Younger. All that remains now is for Younger to announce formally his intention to run for the governorship.

Then the campaign fur will really fly.

Nicholson's questioning of witnesses on the show Wednesday was precise, pertinent and winning.

This could be expected of a man who gained a positive and well - deserved reputation for his handling of the "wolfpack" cases in Oakland several years ago.

Now executive director of the California District Attorneys Association and based in Sacramento, we can't help but feel that Nicholson will earn himself even weightier duties and positions in the future.

From the few conversations I have had with the man, both as a parent concerned about his children's welfare and as an employee of the county, I believe Nicholson to be a highly - skilled and trustworthy servant of the people.

But we are straying from the primary subject .... the death penalty and whether it should ever again be invoked in this state.

As often as one hears the comment that the death penalty has not and could never be a deterrent to crime, one reads or hears of the latest index showing the crime rate escalating — especially in suburbia.

The incredible saga of Gary Gilmore in Utah helped focus more attention on not only the death penalty but the total question of human life.

This case illustrated that there is not the reverence for life, at least not 100 per cent, that many of us take for granted as being so.

It would seem, when discussing a death penalty or capital punishment that the reverence takes slightly different forms.

Popular opinion indicates one can have a reverence for life and still believe in capital punishment, or believe that taking someone's life as punishment for taking another's is at least unconscionable.

It really goes back to the initial, criminal act and what we the people believe should be the penalty.

I cannot countenance the word of the people being abridged by the sentiments of one person or one segment of the populace.

Not funny

The efforts by women libbers to change the English language under the banner of achieving equality has gone beyond the pale and ceases to be amusing. There is a great difference between equality and nonsense.

It cannot be denied that women have sufferred discrimination in certain matters. But their contention that this has been the result of men dominating public office is just as much sheer nonsense as their clamor for neuter titles for those offices and general elimination of genders.

Most of the discriminatory practices adversely affecting women are not because of laws, although it might be said some of them were made possible by the lack of prohibitory laws. Thus the inability to get equal pay for equal work, equal opportunities for promotion and employment in high level positions, equal treatment in credit and other financial dealings such as leases and home mortgages, stem from arbitrary decisions by private industry. Most of that has now been corrected, as much as possible, by statutes.

As for prior laws there had always been a tendency towards gallantry to the weaker sex in lawmaking because the lawmakers were men. That many of the laws discriminated against men is something women are now learning to their dismay as the result of reaction to the overkill efforts of the women libbers. Such laws granting special protection to women such as minimum wages, overtime pay and maximum hours of work and mandatory rest periods, are now being challenged and failing the equal rights test for the men. Alimony, once the exclusive right of women, has now been ruled by the courts to be available to men as well.

Until the women libbers raised all the fuss the men didn't seem to mind giving the females a little break in the laws here and there. And, to the extent that laws were needed to guarantee them equal treatment in matters of clear importance, they were unhesitatingly supported by the men.

It is when it became apparent that equality was defined by the women libbers as "preferential treatment" that the rub came. Adding to the irritation have been the asinine efforts for meaningless changes in the language.

At first it was the pressure to substitute a non-word "Ms" for Miss or Mrs. The arguement was that no similar distinction in word usage was available for men, as if that ever stopped any woman from finding out in the first minute of conversation whether or not a man was married. In charging that such designations were the result of male chauvinism the women made themselves the quintessence of sexism.

The silliest crusade of the libbers has been that of trying to change the usage of "he" or "she" to "person" as well as certain titles. Thus "chairman" becomes "chairperson" and "mailman" becomes "postal person." The latest is the attempt by the women to change "Assemblyman" to Assemblyperson."

Certain titles, such as chairman, are sexless through long usage. The very fact that, in parliamentary procedure, one addresses that office as "Mrs." or "Madame chairman" proves that. It would seem "assemblyman" would fall into that same category as does Senator or President.

That women legislators have nothing more important on their minds than worrying about such small matters provokes the thought that maybe that is why so few get elected. If this kind of nonsense isn't soon stopped the next thing will be to change "woman" to "woperson" and "female" to "feperson." Whether the women libbers, who may want to be sexless, like it or not there are many cogent reasons for word useage distinguishing sex and there is no good reason to rewrite all the laws to change titles which by long custom are sexless in their true meaning.

From this view the offering of a chair, opening of a door, tipping of the hat, and sending roses still has a firm place in the relationships between a man and a lady. Long live chivalry!

round the town

Now that "Roots" has pre - empted one television network's prime time programming for eight splendorful days — accompanied by generous ABC - TV claims of splendorful success — we can look forward to many duplicates of that same format.

It is television's way. "If ABC can take Alex Haley's search for his ancestors, and squeeze out 12 hours of telecasting — minus of course 216 minutes of commercial breaks — then we can do the same!" was the point made by William X. Xerox of NBC.

A similar comment came from Charles F. Duplicator, Jr. vice president for New Ideas in CBS - TV.

"Let ABC - TV have no doubt that we will stand idly by while they get a corner on bare - breasted slaves," Duplicator said, adding that "CBS already has plans to televise — for three consecutive weeks and six hours each evening — the dramatic story of a liberated office girl's search for her true identity in the Goodrich Rubber Company corporate structure. The final episode will have this troubled young person hanging from the Goodrich blimp — bare - breasted, of course — threatening to jump at the height of the Cronkike evening news report."

Advised that Goodrich Rubber Company does not have a blimp, Charles F. Duplicator, Jr. thundered, "Then we'll build them one, bygawd!"

One must admit that the concept employed by Alex Haley is a fascinating one. Go back to the old home town, find the neighborhood story teller who has vague recollections of your grandfather etc. Take one name dropped by neighborhood story teller and (in Alex Haley's case) chase around darkest Africa for twelve years to find others who may recall that name ... linked to this or that tribe ... a dramatic story of great - great - grandad's capture by white slavers ... escape ... capture again ... more escape. It all makes for terrific reading. And exciting viewing.

Thank God — for the sake of Alex Haley, Reader's Digest and ABC - TV — that Mr. Haley's enslaved forefathers came from such exciting stock! I mean, can you imagine the result if Mr. Haley had spent 13 years researching his family tree only to learn that great - great grandad was a bead - stringer for the Getlost tribe??

The thought of ABC - TV trying to string out eight prime - time episodes on bead stringing is frightening. Not impossible, mind you, just frightening.

There is, in truth, nothing that television cannot now string into a "mini series" once the network geniuses apply themselves to the task. In recent weeks we have seen World Wars I and II recaptured through the eyes of one very durable soldier, and 15 very durable les femmes to bring us what is now called an "anthology." (Anthologies differ from mini - series in that the former require FOUR major sponsors; mini series get by with just two major sponsors, plus 30 or so local commercial breaks.)

But I digress. The whole point of this critique (you may have noticed that everyone on our staff now critiques the arts ... it's part of our J - school training) is to acquaint you with my forthcoming novel. "BARE ROOT!" It is autobiographical, sort of, which means it is an historic retracing of my origins, more of less, based on facts carefully pieced together, one way or another.

The title, as you have already guessed, suggests just a touch of pornography in that "Bare Root" is a far more interesting subject than, say, "Turnip Root" which was actually my first choice. I was raised on turnips through the early years of my enslavement to the Canadian prairies. I was, however, rarely bare in that Canadian winters regularly run to eight months ... unless they have an unusual cold snap.

"Frozen Stiff in Moose Jaw" was another early choice for a title of this mini - anthology, but someone in KRON - TV recalled that Art Linkletter has already copyrighted that title as a sequel to his "Loose Jaw From Moose Jaw" which you will remember as the best seller which launched Art on his highly successful career as a salesman for packaged insurance plans catering to old folks who are mostly blind and totally deaf. Art and I are not the only famous people to trace our origins back to Moose Jaw, but to list them all here would remove the element of surprise in the fast - moving climax as "Bare Root" enters its eleventh and final week. Starring Frank Sinatra Jr. and all members of the United States Sixth Army, listed in alphabetical order.

Parental discretion advised for those parents who still use any discretion when it comes to choosing whose autobiographical fantasy they want to watch, for eleven blessed weeks.

Amnesty

The deed has been done — Jimmy Carter made good his campaign promise to pardon the draft dodgers.

Many people are ecstatic; others feel "sold out."

Some become angry when they contrast attitudes of the draft evaders with their own personal commitments to military actions of this country.

The draft evaders proudly say they honorably served their country by being individualistic enough to stay out of an "immoral war that was illegally fought."

Some veterans call the draft dodgers cowards.

Some veterans tossed their medals on the steps of the U.S. Capitol Building in Washington, D.C., expressing shame for their part in the Viet Nam military action.

There have been exaggerations on both sides. The rhetoric has been wild. Yet, it is not over.

There is another important aspect of the issue.

The foundations of this country — the foundations which made it a great country — called for freedom of the individual. The Constitution had built - in safeguards for those freedoms and when the Constitution did not have sufficient safeguards, there were mechanisms to add amendments for further safeguards.

Article One, Section Eight authorized Congress, among other things, "to raise and support armies."

It also gave Congress the power to "make all laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into execution the foregoing powers . . ."

That "necessary and proper" clause is so, so important in the current argument of law. If a law is not proper (in keeping with the word of the Constitution) it is not, in fact, a law — even if it has semblence of law. (Ask the Supreme Court which ruled that way.)

There is no mention in the Constitution of the right of the government to resort to conscription as a means of "raising" the armies.

When the Thirteenth Amendment was passed in 1865, it gave further strength to the argument that this was supposed to be a land of the free.

"Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall exist within the United States, or any place subject to their jurisdiction."

When that was adopted as part of the supreme law of the land, it was not just meant for the former black slaves, but for all people.

Those are the legal arguments against conscription, but there are also some very compelling moral arguments.

Who owns your life? If the government owns it, then there is no doubt that they have every right to draft you and do with you as they please. If the group owns it, then you can similarly be subject to use by the group for protection.

On the other hand, if each individual owns his or her own life, then no other person or institution has any just claim on it without your voluntary commitment.

How often do we hear the so-called patriotic message that as long as one stays in a given geographical region one owes an obligation to serve in that region's protection as defined by the political structure that holds sway in that region.

Such people would say "If you don't like it here, leave."

How ironic that most people who hold this view, call themselves anti - communist.

The "obligation" view is directly based on the radical Marxist view of property in society — that all property belongs to the collective group and that all those who occupy the group's property exist for and by permission of the collective group, owing obligations to it.

Let's set the facts straight. This is America. Man is born with a God - given right to freedom. No government on the face of the earth has the moral right to demand the unwilling sacrifice of any citizen.

Perhaps Jimmy Carter should not have "pardoned" those thousands, for a pardon is a form of forgiveness for wrongdoing. These people deserve absolute amnesty. Nothing less.

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am on a low-cholesterol diet. Is canned tuna fish packed in water good for my diet? Also, how about scallops? I read that scallops are low in cholesterol. Is that so? Please give me some information on what I should eat to keep my cholesterol down.

DEAR READER — The water-packed tuna is an excellent choice for a low-fat, low-cholesterol food. Only 5.7 per cent of its calories are from fat. Not many other foods are that low in fat, particularly if they give you any protein at all. And a three-and-a-half ounce portion contains only 52 milligrams of cholesterol. Lean beef and most fish contain about 70 milligrams, which is not high compared to the high cholesterol foods such as egg yolks (one yolk contains 225 milligrams) or fat in dairy products.

Scallops are an equally good choice and only a little more than two per cent of the calories in scallops are from fat. A three-and-a-half ounce edible portion, raw, contains only 60 milligrams of cholesterol.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-3, Diet, Preventing Atherosclerosis to give you a general concept of what foods you should eat and which ones you should avoid in following a low-fat, low-cholesterol diet. Other who want this information can send 50 cents for it with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — If a person is highly allergic to penicillin does that mean he will also be allergic to bee stings?

My mother-in-law thinks she read in your column that anyone who has a reaction to penicillin will have that same reaction if stung by a bee. Since she almost died from penicillin she is petrified of bees.

As soon as the doctor gave her the penicillin shot she had a buzzing of bees in her ears, the room was spinning and she swelled up all inside which caused her to be unable to breathe. The doctor had to give her two shots to bring her out of the reaction.

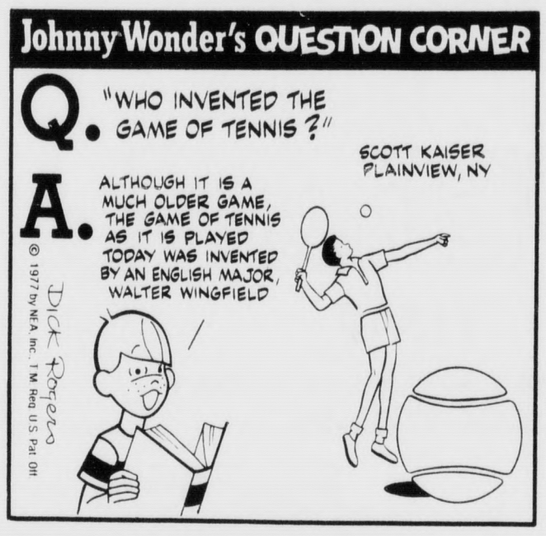
My mother-in-law is very upset and I can't convince her that this does not mean she is automatically allergic to bees. She never had a reaction to penicillin before.

DEAR READER — She didn't read that in my column. There is no connection to being allergic to penicillin and having severe reactions to bee stings.

Before a person has an allergic reaction to anything they must first be sensitized to the offending agent. In your mother-in-law's case she had received penicillin before and became sensitized to it at that time. The next time she was challenged with the penicillin shot she had a penicillin reaction.

She does have the basis for forming allergies so she should be tested carefully before taking medicines to see if she is sensitive to them. If she happens to use hair tints she should be sure to always test her reaction. Other than a general increased tendency to have allergic reactions she need not worry about anything except penicillin and she needs to avoid it like the plague.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER



Q. "WHO INVENTED THE GAME OF TENNIS?"
SCOTT KAISER
PLAINVIEW, NY
A. ALTHOUGH IT IS A MUCH OLDER GAME, THE GAME OF TENNIS AS IT IS PLAYED TODAY WAS INVENTED BY AN ENGLISH MAJOR, WALTER WINGFIELD
© 1977 by NEA, Inc. T.M. Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.
Dick Rogers

The first tennis game ever played in the United States was played in 1874. But tennis is actually a much older game.

The ancient Egyptians and Greeks played a ball game which later became a game similar to the tennis played today. During the Middle Ages, kings and noblemen played a kind of tennis game called court tennis or royal tennis on indoor courtyards.

An Englishman named Major Walter Wingfield is credited with inventing outdoor tennis with most of its present features in 1873. At first the game was played on grass-covered courts.

That is why the official name of the game is lawn tennis, even though the game is often played on outdoor courts of clay, asphalt, or even concrete. It is played on indoor courts, too.

Every year there are championship tennis matches. The two best-known are the Davis Cup for men and the Wightman Cup for women.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

One visualizes the final round of the Spingold or the Vanderbilt as replete with brilliant bidding and scintilating play, but that is not always the case. Sometimes the experts slip.

Three notrump is a cinch, but it is hard to get to and both pairs arrived at five clubs. A heart was discarded on the ace of diamonds at both tables.

Larry Cohen of the Rosenkranz team discarded a heart on the ace of diamonds, played the ace of spades, ruffed a spade and led a heart to East's 10. A club was returned to dummy's eight, another spade ruffed and a second heart led to East's ace.

East led another trump, but it was to no avail. Larry won in dummy, ruffed another spade, ruffed a heart with dummy's three of trumps, discarded his last heart on dummy's fifth spade and claimed.

The other declarer overlooked the possibility in that fifth spade. He led a heart at trick two to East's 10, his queen and West's king. West led a trump. A second heart went to East's ace and a second trump made it impossible for declarer to ruff more than one heart. Down one!

It all depends on your partnership agreement. We will devote the two weeks starting Jan. 31 to discussion of this and other two-bid problems.

Pokes, Dons tangle

Craig Madden (left) of California and Livermore's Dick Patterson (right) go for ball in Wednesday night's East Bay Athletic League basketball game which the Cowboys won, 70-59. EBAL action continues tonight with Livermore (4-2) facing unbeaten Amador (6-0) in a must-win situation on the Pokes' floor. Other games have California at Dublin, Monte Vista visiting Foothill, and Granada at San Ramon.

Major girls soccer tourney scheduled

By Dave Weber

Jean Boehm and Dennis Setera are finding out just how fast they can put on a major soccer tournament.

Three weeks ago, a small girls age group tourney had to be cancelled in Santa Rosa. When the District III girls league managers decided to fill the gap the field quickly ballooned from 16 teams to more than eighty.

Thus, the valley will host its first international girls soccer tourney February 19-21 in the form of the first Washington's Birthday Friendship Tournament.

"We're hoping that a strong tournament may keep the VCSD (Valley Community Services District) from turning the fields back into cow pastures or frisbee areas," Boehm cracked yesterday.

But the tournament might not have come about at all if not for a chance remark by Betty Ellis, who directed the temporarily defunct Santa Rosa event. Eilis suggested that Boehm' San Ramon club might like to take over the tourney.

Jean agreed and took the idea to the District III girls league managers, a group she is chairman of — anticipating a 1978 start. Why can't we do it this year?, the representatives of Fremont, Livermore, Pleasanton and Dublin soccer asked.

With no good reason readily available, Boehm and Setera went to work on six weeks notice and thanks to an enthusiastic response, have most everything under control.

The games are scheduled for three sites, the Dublin Sports Grounds, the Pleasanton Sports and Recreation Park and Dublin High School. However, make no mistake, this is a valley-wide tournament.

"We having a spaghetti feed on Sunday night during the tourney and a lady from Livermore is doing the cooking," Boehm revealed. But that only scrathes the surface of the support the tournament is receiving in Southern Alameda county.

"Everybody is asking, where do you need us? what can we do?" Boehm said. "Jack Miller is handling the referees and he has people calling him all the time wanting to know if we need soccer balls...nets...portable refreshment stands."

And all the traveling valley youth teams have been doing of late is apparently showing a dividend.

"My team (the San Ramon Superiors under-19's) did so much traveling last year, we made a lot of friends along the way," said Boehm, citing an example. "The unique part is that people are calling and asking if they can get housed with a certain team that played in their area recently."

Once the action gets started on the field, there will be a lot of those areas represented. Calgary and Edmonton are lending an international flavor and teams will be coming from Sacramento and Sunnyvale as well as various District III clubs. From out of state will come Las Vegas sides.

Another unique feature of the tourney will be the dividing of each age group into three divisions for competitive, semi-competive and house league teams in order to give the latter groups some extra games. Each team will be guaranteed five contests.

"It looks like its really going to be an international friendship tourney," Boehm enthuses. It couldn't hurt.

Dons, MV top foes

Monte Vista, which won eight of the 13 matches, defeated rival San Ramon 36-21 in an East Bay Athletic League wrestling match on the winners' mats yesterday.

In another EBAL match Amador dumped Foothill 56-12 in Pleasanton.

The Mustangs, now 2-3, were led by Bill Howard, Norman Oldroyd and Dave Forhnan, who all pinned their opponents.

Howard started off the scoring for the Mustangs, pinning Mike O'Reilly at 1:23 of the first round. Oldroyd, on the other hand, pinned SR's Gino Benetti with 1:56 showing, also in the first round.

Velasquez defends Hayward crown

HAYWARD — Livermore's Rod Velasquez leads a contingent of three valley golfers into the Hayward City Golf Championships which begin tomorrow morning at Skywest.

Velasquez, the defending champion of the year's first official Northern California Golf Association point standings event, shot a 70-69-74-213 a year ago and believes he can repeat that finish.

"I just hit the ball straight at Skywest, the only difficulty is that it's a long course," he said yesterday. Indeed, the par-72 layout measures 7029 total yards.

Velasquez, a 28-year old employee of Mack Western Trucks, also copped the Oakland City championship and the Bay Regional title in 1976, but don't look for his name in those ever - present point standings.

Rod isn't a member of the NCGA, although he plans to join this season.

Also scheduled to compete in the Hayward event will be Dublin's Chris Cantalini, currently a leading qualifier for the Chabot College golf team, and David Matthews of Pleasanton.

From that other valley, a few miles north on I-680, will come former Monte Vista High School star Carl Richardson and Danville's Steve Bjerke.

Burns' two firsts leads Aquacowboys

Amador student honors

Cyril Bonnano, a counselor at Amador Valley High School, congratulates Casey Safreno on his being selected Rotary Club Student of the Month for January. Casey was selected on the basis of his outstanding scholarship as well as his service to the school and participation in numerous activities. He has a 4-point grade point average and will be Valedictorian of his graduating class. He has participated in cross country and track, and is currently student body vice president. He is an active member of Block A and California Scholarship Federation.

Cal High senior wins honor trip

SAN RAMON— Don Diers has been named California High School's first Presidential Scholar and will attend the Presidential Classroom in Washington, D.C. from March 5 to 12.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Diers, Don was chosen for this honor from a group of 16 outstanding members of the senior class. Finalists were Fritz Descovich, Sue Helgesen, Kerry Miller, Bobbie Payne, and Julie Thacker. Payne is the alternate delegate.

Diers has been active in student activities throughout his four years at California High. He is one of the school photographers, a yearbook editor, was publicity chairman for the student body last year, and is active in the International Club.

Diers will be in Washington, D.C. from March 5 to 12 with students from all 50 states, territories, and some foreign countries. One other student, a resident of Danville who attends a private school, will also attend the Presidential Classroom.

Purpose of the Presidential Classroom program is to recognize outstanding students in the area of America government, and to give them as opportunity to be actively involved, through daily seminar discussion groups and direct encounters with federal decision - makers.

The school is able to participate in this program this year because of the contributions from the Diablo Valley Savings Foundation, the Republican Women's Club, the Danville - Alamo branch of the American Association of University Women, the San Ramon Valley Democratic Club, faculty scholarship fund, student body funds, as well as donations from anonymous contributors.

Tennis signups slated

PLEASANTON — Registration for all March and April tennis classes offered at Tennis Faire by the Department of Recreation and Human Resources is scheduled from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. Feb. 7 at the Veterans uilding.

Instructors Marv Silva and Roger Kahn offer classes from the beginner level to advanced. All classes are held at the indoor courts of Tennis Faire on the Alameda County Fairgrounds.

Pleasanton seeks cost for vandalized trees

PLEASANTON — The city council wants Harvest Park School students to pay for damage to trees believed vandalized by a few students from that school.

The damage occurred last week after a dance was held at the intermediate school. Neighbors who witnessed the destruction said students attending the dance broke 75 per cent of the trees in the park area between Harvest Park and Walnut Grove schools.

Councilman Ken Mercer suggested approaching the student body for the estimated $135 in damages and if they don't pay, the school's PTA should be asked.

Mercer suggested that donated student labor might also be appropriate when city crews go out to plant new trees in the park. The council member visited the scene and saw nine vandalized trees, including two pulled out of the ground totally and a few big tree stakes broken.

On another tree item, the council learned that a segment of Del Prado is without trees because of a change in developers over the years. The city will ascertain which developer — MacKay Homes or Ponderosa Co. is supposed to be resonponsible for putting in the trees.

The city had the original developer put up bond money, but owing to inflation it is not enough to permit the city to cash the bonds and buy the trees.

Dow, Brown seek ways to cut permits

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Dow Chemical Co. and the Brown administration have called for changes in the permit process which Dow blames for its decision not to build a $500 million petrochemical plant.

Representatives of Dow and Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. took that stand Wednesday at a legislative hearing on Dow's move to quit pursuing the 65 permits needed to build a Solano County plant.

Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s environmental planning adviser, Bill Press, admitted that the state, local and federal permit process is "just too cumbersome to tolerate."

The Democratic governor's aide proposed that a law be passed requiring state agencies to approve or reject major projects one year after the state receives final application.

Dow's West Coast manager, Ray Brubaker, also urged a one-year limit but said it should start to run as soon as a company announces its intention to build a project.

Although Brubaker stressed he did not want to engage in a "witch hunt" against Brown's administration, he did say:

"I became very discouraged that there would be any reaction by any of the agencies in 70 days or 70 weeks."

During the two years Dow spent $4 million seeking the permits, Brubaker said he gained "an impression some staff people were trying very hard to find something that was wrong."

Inoculation clinic set for SRV area

MARTINEZ — Residents in the San Ramon area may receive immunizations free of charge at the Contra Costa County Health Department Immunization Clinic to be held at the Family Health Care Center, 9260 Alcosta Blvd. in San Ramon Thursday, Feb. 3 from 3 to 6 p.m.

Immunization against polio, diphtheria, pertussis (whooping cough), tetanus (lockjaw) and measles will be offered.

Rubella (German measles) vaccine will be available for ages 1 to 12.

Females over age 12 should consult their usual source of medical care for their personal need for Rubella vaccine.

Smallpox vaccination, though no longer routinely recommended, is available for those who need it for special circumstances.

Children 13 years of age and under must be accompanied by a parent or legal guardian.

An adult bringing a child other than his own must present a written consent signed by the child's parent or guardian.

Persons 14 to 17 years old may be accompanied by a parent or guardian or may bring a written consent.

The Health Department believes immunizations are best secured from one's own physician since they are familiar with the patient's health status and keep permanent records of all services.

The Health Department does not keep records of each individual's immunizations and recommends these be kept by the person or family.

For further information, please call the Health Department in Concord, at 671-4260.
